Tips for getting fitted for a post-surgery bra:

Get fitted

It's important to get professionally fitted prior to the surgery. However, if an in-person fitting isn't possible, you could try calling your nearest stockist, calling Royce direct on +44 (0)1295 265 557 or you can fit yourself at home using Royce's online guide www.royce-lingerie.co.uk/fit-guide. We recommend going up a band size to allow for swelling.

Go wirefree

A wirefree bra will offer greater comfort immediately after surgery, it will also put less pressure on the delicate chest area.

Choose details for comfort

You should be looking for a secure full coverage shape with a deep centre and underarm edges to avoid irritating the surgery site. Front-fastening bras will also make putting on or removing your bra much easier.

Once your healing process is well underway, it's time to get a new bra to regain your natural silhouette and be the perfect fit under your clothes. If you've been fitted with a prosthesis, a Royce post-surgery pocketed bra will be the perfect solution to regaining confidence after surgery and getting back to buying beautiful bras that make you look great and feel supported.
